#iwill ... continue to encourage the young members to continue in their Scouting journey to help build important skills for life.

I support the young members of my Scout group to take part in activities and to understand what they are meant to be doing. I am relatively new to the area and so I love using social action as a way of bringing the skills and experience that I have learnt from moving to a new country to help other people to build their own place in their community.

When the Scout group opened, I wanted to get involved to help build an exciting group for young people and adults to join to help them to gain new skills and to better themselves. This is especially important in my area, as a lot of people aren't very well off and Scouts is something to get involved with that the young people wouldn't have access to otherwise. Through taking part in social action, I have become more confident and I want to use social action to learn about and from others in my area, and discover what matters are important to my local community.

I strive to ensure that everyone can take part no matter their age, nationality, gender, or ability.

"Through social action, I will help to ensure that the voice of young people is heard when it is most important."
